Abstract: The article discusses the issues of increasing and improving the sense of participation of young people in the development of social relations in the Republic of Uzbekistan; the importance of state policy issues related to youth in building civil society, as well as the vital prospects of democratic traditions in the development of society.

Keywords: Social relations, state policy, civil society, youth activity, innovative activity, social problem, economy, spiritual reforms.

Introduction: Attention has been paid to improving all forms of youth activity in the development of society since ancient times. The Greek philosopher Socrates emphasized the importance of cultivating a sense of involvement in the moral development of young people in society. These include Aristotle's views on intellectual qualities and good behavior that reflect human qualities.

In our country, the issues of increasing and improving the involvement of young people in the development of social relations have been recognized as one of the priority tasks. The fact that issues of state policy related to youth have become the most important value of building civil society, and determining their life prospects based on democratic traditions, is becoming an important criterion.

In Uzbekistan, practical processes related to youth life, issues of comprehensive support and empowerment of young people, and the creation of the most modern conditions for them have been raised to the top of state policy priorities.

State youth policy is a priority area of reforms being implemented in our country, and its goals are to help young people find their place in social life in a complete and perfect way, to become knowledgeable, strong-willed, talented and competent in all aspects, and to constantly freely demonstrate their talents. is a set of measures. In order to implement these processes, our state is creating all the necessary conditions in the organizational, normative, cultural, social, economic and political aspects. All issues related to the full realization of the potential of young people in social life are being resolved in a guaranteed manner. All normative, legal and legislative frameworks of state youth policy have been perfectly formed, and relevant legislative documents are being adopted in a timely manner under appropriate conditions.

In addition to the norms applicable to all citizens, the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan also contains rules that apply specifically to young people. In particular, Articles 50, 51, 52, 53 of our Constitution in the new edition are considered to be related to education, and Article 50 states: "Everyone has the right to education. The state ensures the development of a continuous education system, its various types and forms, state and non-state educational organizations. The state creates conditions for the development of preschool education and upbringing. The state guarantees free general secondary education and initial vocational education. General secondary education is compulsory. Preschool education and upbringing, general secondary education are under state control. Inclusive education and upbringing for children with special educational needs is provided in educational organizations. In addition, Article 78 of our Constitution states that "Children are equal before the law, regardless of the lineage and civil status of their parents. The state is obliged to ensure and protect the rights, freedoms and legitimate interests of the child, and to create the best conditions for his or her full physical, mental and cultural development; "Article 79 states: "The state ensures the protection of the personal, political, economic, social, cultural, and ecological rights of young people and encourages their active participation in the life of society and the state." The state creates conditions for the intellectual, creative, physical and moral formation and development of young people, for the implementation of their rights to education, health, housing, employment, leisure and recreation; "Article 80 states that "Children who have reached the age of majority and are capable of working shall be obliged to take care of their parents." The standards are noted.

The ability of young people to find their place in social life, live a prosperous life, and make positive changes in their daily lives is closely linked to the characteristics of society. In the system of ensuring state youth policy, there is a constant systemic interaction between young people and other segments of the population of society. This mutual relationship takes on the stable features associated with ensuring the national interests of society, adhering to all existing constitutional and legal principles, and jointly striving for the prosperity of the country.

In the theory and practice of youth policy on all normative and organizational bases, young people are recognized as a social group that ensures the future and prospects of our country. In recent years, numerous normative and legal documents have been adopted to strengthen the authority of young people in society, strengthen their life position, and support them in the socio-economic sphere. For example, the Resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated August 14, 2018 No. PQ-3907 "On measures to raise young people in a moral, ethical and physical way, and to raise the quality of the education system for them to a new level", the Resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated June 30, 2020 No. PF-6017 "On radical reform of the state policy on youth in the Republic of Uzbekistan and Decree of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated June 30, 2020 No. PQ-4768 "On the organization of the activities of the Youth Affairs Agency of the Republic of Uzbekistan", Decree of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated July 13, 2021 "On additional measures to support and encourage young people in all aspects and further increase their social activity Decree No. PF-6260 of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated April 20, 2021 "On additional measures to support and promote the entrepreneurial activity of young people, their social protection, and meaningful organization of their leisure time" Decree No. PF-6208 of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On radical improvement of the system of work with young people in neighborhoods Resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated January 19, 2022 No. PQ-92 "On measures to radically improve the system of working with young people in neighborhoods", Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated January 18, 2021 "On approval of the Concept of Development of State Youth Policy in Uzbekistan until 2025" Resolution No. 23, Resolution No. 310 of the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated June 7, 2022 "On approval of the Program for the implementation of state youth policy in the Republic of Uzbekistan in 2022-2023", are among them.

In accordance with the Decree of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan No. PF-6017 dated June 30, 2020 "On measures to radically reform and relaunch state youth policy in the Republic of Uzbekistan", the Youth Affairs Agency of the Republic of Uzbekistan, as well as its branches in the Republic of Karakalpakstan, regions, Tashkent city administrations and district (city) branches, were established in our country. The decree included many tasks to be performed by the Youth Affairs Agency, which outlined innovative mechanisms for all-round support and encouragement of young people. For example, educating young people in the spirit of loyalty to the Motherland, respect for national and universal values, broadly involving the growing younger generation in science and innovation, and educating them in the spirit of "National recovery - the essence of national progress!" to determine measures aimed at unifying around the idea of; to protect the rights and freedoms, legal interests of young people, to actively participate in the implementation of crime and crime prevention among young people;

Five important initiatives have been widely implemented, including sending talented young people to study at leading foreign higher education institutions, ensuring their participation in international competitions, involving the younger generation in culture, art, physical education and sports, increasing their literacy in information technologies, promoting librarianship among young people, and ensuring the employment of women. to coordinate the work aimed at the implementation, to develop their intellectual potential and talents; to widely involve young people in small business and private entrepreneurship, to create additional conditions for their mastery of modern professions and digital economy skills, and to assist in the processes of providing them with jobs; "developing international cooperation in the field of youth policy, taking necessary measures to increase our country's position in international youth rankings, and systematically organizing work with young people studying abroad" are set out.

Proposals and initiatives on solving social issues in society today by young people, existing problems in the regions, and Programs are being adopted to address these issues. In this regard, the government, regions, and Tashkent city, district, and city khokimiyats are also regularly adopting numerous programs and action plans related to solving youth problems. Thus, youth problems are being addressed regularly at the state, government, and khokimiyat levels, and important implementation of advisory measures is being ensured.

In the system of solving youth problems, existing state and non-state organizations in society, political parties, mass media, as well as the social responsibility and innovative activity of each citizen play an important role. Because solving the problems of young people strengthens their confidence in the future, increases their creative potential, develops their creative abilities, creates action programs and progressive creative ideas in everyday life, as well as progressive innovative thinking, as a result, important values that contribute to national progress are formed in society.

The Youth Agency and the Youth Union are implementing the following measures to improve the comprehensive socialization of young people in society and increase their responsibility in solving social problems:

- improve the educational, educational and methodological base of the organization, as well as the system of continuous professional development of employees and leaders on the basis of innovation;
- comprehensively increase the effectiveness of the activities of grassroots organizations, expand their social interaction with youth representatives in their places;
- to modernize the activities of youth social service centers, to promote new initiatives to assist them in solving issues related to social and social security in the work of all categories of the population;
- strengthening festivals and educational events that serve to strengthen the socio-spiritual atmosphere of interethnic harmony and religious tolerance among citizens living in our multi-ethnic, multi-confessional country today;
- to establish the activities of the Council of Progressive Leaders on a community basis in localities, work with unorganized youth, strengthen the cooperation of leaders of grassroots organizations with the mahalla institute;
- to increase the effectiveness of local legal culture and healthy lifestyle-related activities, organize various initiatives, assistance and support with young families;
- Continuous promotion of the upbringing of a new, harmonious and enterprising generation among the general public of young people through the mass media.

The Youth Union's leading organizations in organizations, enterprises and institutions are not only responsible for ensuring the implementation of state youth policy, but also for attracting experienced, competent and qualified personnel to this area, helping them implement social programs and innovative ideas, and for forming a strong and reliable community through constant work. It consists of searching for and educating young people who are socially active, have civic responsibility, and have high leadership skills, and by implementing their socially significant initiatives, it serves to promote democratic traditions and values of national progress in society and determine its future.

In the era of globalization, social problems that exist in the world have a negative impact on the life of our country. The issue of youth participation in preventing social problems is also relevant today. Increasing the legal and moral responsibility of young people, forming their immunity on the basis of serving the state and society is an important task in the implementation of state policy on youth.
